GENERAL UNIVERSITY RULES

1. GENERAL INFORMATION

Note: It is important that students know the general rules and the Faculty rules that apply to their degree/diploma programmes.

1.1 General Rules

The general rules that apply to all students and faculties are set out in the General Rules for Undergraduate Qualifications, Postgraduate Diplomas, Bachelor Honours Degrees, Master's Degrees, Doctoral Degrees, Higher Doctorates, Honorary Degrees and the Convocation for 2017 (hereafter referred to as the General Rules). General rules deal with matters such as:

- Admission requirements for study at the University;
- How to register for a programme. (These rules include details on how to change courses, simultaneous registration, and whether credit will be given for work done at other higher education institutions.)
- What is required to pass a module, or to be awarded a distinction? (These rules include rules and details about tests, examinations and special examinations, rules about marks, rules that apply if a student misreads the examination timetable, and rules about readmitting students to or excluding students from programmes.)

1.2 Faculty rules

Faculty rules relate specifically to the degree and diploma programmes offered by the Faculty of the Humanities. These rules are to be found in this book.

1.3 General requirements to be admitted as a student to the Faculty

Generally students may register for courses offered by the Faculty of the Humanities if they meet the University's admission requirements. Some courses offered by the Faculty of the Humanities require students to meet requirements in addition to those that the University requires for general admission. Students must refer to the applicable programmes contained in this rulebook to find out if they qualify for a particular course.

A prospective student registering for a first qualification must take the Academic and Quantitative Literacy Test prior to registering. If the stipulated requirements of the National Benchmark Tests (NBT) (Academic Literacy $\geq 64\%$) have not been met, or the results of the tests cannot be submitted, registration for the applicable language foundation module (EALH1508/AGAH1508) is mandatory. The credits of this module are additional to the credits required for the qualification. A qualification is not awarded unless the mandatory foundation module has been passed. NBT results will be consulted during the registration process.

Students who have completed the University Preparation Programme (UPP) successfully and wish to continue their studies in the Faculty, will be admitted to the second year of study of the Extended (4-year curriculum) Programme.

1.4 Assessment of students

Assessment is the process of determining the value, significance and extent of what students know, understand, and can do with their knowledge as a result of their educational experiences. Assessment results are used to document, explain, and improve performance. Assessment can be done at various times throughout a programme. A comprehensive assessment plan will include formative and summative assessment or, alternatively, continuous assessment. The point at which the assessment occurs in a programme distinguishes these three types of assessment.

Summative assessment is considered as assessment of learning and is distinguished from formative assessment, which is assessment for learning.

Summative assessment

Summative assessment takes place after the learning has been completed, i.e., at the end of a quarter, semester or year and provides information and feedback that sums up the teaching and learning process. The intention behind summative assessment is to validate performance and award grades or marks.

Formative assessment

Formative assessment measures students' learning progress during the learning process to provide ongoing feedback and incremental feedback. It includes a range of formal and informal assessments, typically to monitor the progress being made towards achieving learning outcomes and obtaining a semester mark or predicate, i.e. admission to the summative assessment exam.

Continuous assessment

Continuous assessment is used as an alternative to summative assessment. Continuous assessment is assessments that occur throughout the learning process and not only after the learning process. Students are thus examined continuously over the duration of a quarter, semester or year. It is cumulative and the marks are calculated to produce a final result.

Students must read the study guide of each particular module carefully to determine exactly how they will be assessed in that module.

1.5 Examinations

Students registered for a module to which the promotion system is not applicable, and students with a module mark below 70% must write the examination for that module. To pass the module, a student must have a combined mark (that is, the module mark combined with the examination mark) of at least 50%, and the mark in the examination must be at least 40%. This mark is the Final Mark.

Admission to the examination: A minimum semester/module mark of 40% is required to be eligible to write the final module/course examinations. A student will be refused admission to the examination if he/she does not obtain the required minimum mark of 40% for a module.

Promotion: In some modules students who have attained a module mark of 70% and more will be promoted and thus they need not sit for the examination. This does not apply to exit-level modules, where the exams have to be taken, or where it is otherwise stated in the module guide that promotion will not apply. Students who can be promoted but wish to sit for the examinations may do so, in which case the EXAMINATION mark will be the final mark.

The Main Mid-year Examination and the Main End-of-year Examination are compulsory for all students who have NOT been promoted, in accordance with the General Rules and the Faculty Rules. Students will only be allowed to write the relevant Additional Mid-year Examination or the Additional End-of-year Examination on approval of a written application, based on the relevant published additional examination timetable. Students who qualify for reassessment do not have to apply for admission to the relevant additional examination. Application for additional examinations is applicable to enrolled UFS students, who: wish to exercise their right in terms of General Rule A9.3 to improve their marks obtained during the preceding main examination; and/or Experienced unforeseen and compelling circumstances immediately prior to or during the preceding compulsory Main Examination.

Students are awarded a qualification only when they have completed all the required modules successfully. Any outstanding module has to be repeated under the conditions of 1.1.

In order to pass a module with distinction, a student must obtain a final mark of at least 75% or a promotion mark of at least 75% and must have participated in all the scheduled assessment opportunities.

1.6 Timetable clashes

The onus is on students to compile their curricula in such a way that they have no timetable clashes in either lectures or examinations. Please check the full class timetable, available at the following link: <http://www.ufs.ac.za/adhoc-pages/quick-links/official-timetables>.

1.7 New degree structures

The Faculty has applied to the Council on Higher Education to change the structure of the Bachelor of Arts and Bachelor of Social Science degrees. The applications are expected to be approved for implementation in 2016. Students who registered in 2015 must note that their second and third year curriculum will be affected by these changes, but the extent of these changes can only be confirmed through the Academic Advising process at the beginning of 2017. These changes will be in the interest of the students' academic progress.

2. BACHELOR'S DEGREES AND UNDERGRADUATE DIPLOMAS

2.1 Minimum Admission Requirements (according to the Higher Education Qualification Sub Framework HEQSF Vol. 792 No. 38116 17 October 2014)

A student wishing to enrol for a Bachelor's Degree programme must have a National Senior Certificate or the National Certificate (Vocational) with appropriate subject combinations and levels of achievement, as defined in the Minister's Policies: Minimum Admission Requirements for Higher Certificate, Diploma and Bachelor's Degree Programmes Requiring a National Senior Certificate (NSC), Government Gazette, Vol. 751, No. 32131 of 11 July 2008, and Minimum Admission Requirements for a National Certificate (Vocational), published in the Government Gazette, Vol. 553, No. 32743, November 2009.

In addition to this minimum requirement, specific admission requirements for each degree programme are specified throughout this book.

2.2 Areas of study

Students may gain their first qualifications in any of the following three areas of study:

1. Liberal Arts (Art History and Visual Culture studies, Classical Studies, History, Languages, Language Practice, Linguistics, Philosophy)
2. Performing Arts (Drama and Theatre Arts, Fine Arts, Music)
3. Social Sciences (Anthropology, Criminology, Political Science, Psychology, Sociology, Social Work)

These three areas offer the various undergraduate degrees and diplomas that are mentioned on the Contents page of this rule book. (The three areas also offer postgraduate courses that are described in the Humanities Rule Book for Postgraduate Studies.)

Nearly all the qualifications in the Faculty of the Humanities are Bachelor of Arts (BA) courses (from the Latin Baccalaureus Artium) or Bachelor of Social Sciences (BSocSci) courses (from the Latin Baccalaureus Societatis Scientiae) and take a minimum of three years to complete. Occasionally a degree course is known by some name other than Bachelor of Arts or Bachelor of Social Science degree, and occasionally the length of the course is longer than three years. Where the name or duration of study differs it is specifically mentioned.

2.3 Explaining the terms subjects, modules, codes and credits

The three areas in the Faculty of the Humanities offer students a broad variety of choices. But within this wide area, each degree or diploma places a limit on students' choices and makes them concentrate on specific "subjects". For example, BA (to take the broadest of the Bachelor's Degree courses) requires students to have at least two major subjects. These are subjects that students take for all three years of study. Students will also have minor subjects; these are subjects that they study for only one or two years.

Each subject is divided up into "modules", which are more-or-less self-contained parts of that subject. For example, philosophy is a subject that comprises the following two first-year modules: "Introduction to philosophy. Historical and conceptual overview of classical Greek and Roman philosophy "; and " The Church Fathers and the Middle Ages: Historical and conceptual overview ". These two modules make up the first-year subject of philosophy.

Each module is known by a code that contains useful information. To take first-year philosophy again: the code for the module "Introduction to philosophy. Historical and conceptual overview of classical Greek and Roman philosophy "is FILO1514.

The alphabetical characters FILO identifies the subject, which is philosophy. The first numerical character (i.e. the first 1) indicates the study year: it is a first-year module. The second numerical character (i.e. the 5) indicates the NQF level at which the module is offered. The third numerical character (i.e. the second 1) indicates the tuition period: odd numbers indicate first semester, even numbers indicate second semester, and a 0 indicates that it is a year module. FILO1514 is a first semester module. The fourth numerical character (i.e. the 4) indicates the credit load of the module in multiples of four: $4 \times 4 = 16$, therefore FILO1514 carries 16 credits. If the credit load deviates from this, a zero (0) is assigned.

Students must know the number of credits each module carries, as each degree requires a certain number of credits for a student to complete. All subjects with their associated modules and credits are listed in a table at the back of this rule book, in alphabetical order.

2.4 Explaining the terms majors and minors, and core, fundamental and elective modules

Every degree programme should include at least two subjects that a student studies in all three years at university. These subjects are known as the student's major fields of study and appear on the student's final certificate. For a subject to be considered a major a student has to complete at least 64 credits at an NQF level 7 in that subject. Most of the time a student will complete these credits during his/her third year of study, but there are subjects in which a student begins to study at a NQF level 7 during the second year.

A student normally starts to commit to his/her major fields of study at the end of the first year.

There is nothing preventing a student from taking more than two subjects to third-year level (i.e. majoring in more than two subjects), but the student must apply, and obtain approval prior to registration, from the dean of the Faculty to do this.

A degree programme is balanced by making at least one other subject compulsory to second-year level. This subject is known as the student's minor subject and will ensure that a student has the required number of credits at NQF level 6 in his/her degree programme. The modules from which students may choose their minor subjects consists of subjects that academically support or add value to the majors.

Elective subjects are subjects that students have more freedom to choose and choice is normally restricted only by timetable clashes. In recommended plans, however, recommended electives are a combination of majors and minors.

All subjects are made up of modules. In most cases at the UFS, a module counts for 16 credits, though not always. The credit values of all modules that are used in the Faculty of the Humanities are shown next to the module in the table at the back of this book under ALPHABETICAL LIST OF SUBJECTS AND MODULES WITH PREREQUISITES, USED IN QUALIFICATIONS IN THE FACULTY OF THE HUMANITIES.

Modules can be core, fundamental or elective modules. Currently in the Faculty of Humanities all modules in major or minor subject fields must be considered as core modules. All modules completed as part of elective subject fields must be considered elective modules.

The fundamental modules that all students in the Faculty of Humanities complete are UFS101 and CSIL1511.

Students in the Faculty of Humanities who do not complete the NBT tests or obtain less than 64% in the AQ section of the NBT test, must complete the fundamental module EALH1508 in their first year of academic study.

The difference between these module categories are:

- Core modules are the compulsory learning required in situations contextually relevant to a particular qualification;
- Fundamental modules are modules in which the learning forms the basis or foundation required for education to take place that is required for obtaining the qualification; and
- Elective modules are a selection of additional credits from which a choice may be made to ensure that the purpose of the qualification is achieved.

2.5 Prerequisites

The requirements for being permitted to take a module are set in the General Rules (Rules A5 and A6). In general, unless departments permit modules to be taken in another order, students are accepted to later modules only if they have successfully completed earlier, preliminary modules. The specific prerequisites for each module in the Faculty of Humanities are provided in the table at the back of this book, ALPHABETICAL LIST OF SUBJECTS AND MODULES WITH PREREQUISITES, USED IN QUALIFICATIONS IN THE FACULTY OF THE HUMANITIES. Please note that these prerequisites will be activated from 2016 for all students who registered from 2015.

2.6 Duration of study and compiling a curriculum (also refer to General Rule A5)

A student may, for an undergraduate qualification, only register at the University for the minimum period allowed for that qualification plus an additional two years, with the second period following directly after the first, and she/he must complete her/his studies for that particular qualification in accordance with the rules applicable at the time of registration. Should there be an interruption to the student's study, the rules applicable to the time of the registration after interruption will apply.

If a student interrupts her/his studies for reasons other than the lack of academic progress, the maximum period of study will be counted from the year of return, but the student will not be permitted to register in the same programme in which she/he was registered before if there has been a change in the programme. The student must then register for a new qualification/programme and recognition must be given where it is valid.

A student must compile and distribute a curriculum over a period not shorter than that determined by Senate, in accordance with the module and venue timetable, the examination timetable, the module prerequisites and the prescribed sequence and composition of modules as required for specific study years.

2.7 Progression rules and readmission on the basis of academic progress

The faculty apply the progression rules as set out in the General Rules. Refer to Rule A3.10 and A3.11 for full details.

2.8 Changes to courses and codes; students wishing to reregister under the new course system

Students who are registered for degrees or diplomas no longer listed in the Rule Book of the Faculty of the Humanities may nevertheless, under normal circumstances, complete their courses in accordance with the rules of the year that they registered, provided that their residential period has not been exceeded or interrupted (see General Rule A5).

Students who registered before course changes may change their registration to an equivalent new degree or to diploma programme outlined in this Rule Book, provided that students comply with the minimum admission requirements for the qualification. Students changing their registration must consult the programme director in charge of the course about the credits they have and about what additional courses they may have to take.

2.9 UFS101

The module UFS101 is compulsory for all students registering for an undergraduate degree or diploma qualification. Mainstream students (those in a programme that is designed for completion in the minimum period stipulated) register for UFS 101 in the first year of study. Mainstream student status is determined by the relevant AP score. Diploma students register for UFS 101 in the second year of study. Extended curriculum programme students register for UFS 101 in the second year of study. Students registered for UFS101 must meet the minimum attendance requirements approved by the Senate to pass the module.

2.10 Faculty Readmission Appeals Committee

General Rule A1 (e) for undergraduate qualifications stipulates that all appeals pertaining to the implementation of the General Rules are considered by the relevant Faculty Readmission Appeals Committee and the decision of this committee will be final. Only the Faculty Readmission Appeals Committee can decide to refer particular appeals regarding uncertainties and grey areas to the rule to the University Appeals Committee, for a final decision.

The process and procedures of the Faculty Readmission Appeals Committee of the Faculty of the Humanities is available on the faculty website. It remains the student's responsibility to acquaint him/herself of the process and procedures of the committee.

2.11 Recognition of credits and exemption from modules

Applications for recognition of credits and exemption from modules in terms of the General Rule A8 will be considered by the Faculty of the Humanities while primarily taking cognisance of the academic integrity and quality of the qualifications of the Faculty. Recognition will be given to different modules if passed within specific periods determined from the date on which the module is passed to the date of application for recognition. The standard period for recognition of modules is five (5) years.

This will be applicable to the following students:

- i) Students who interrupted their studies with a year or more, and who want to continue in 2017.
- ii) Students who transfer from other universities or from another faculty within the UFS, to a qualification in the Humanities
- iii) Students who, from 2017, transfer from one degree in the Faculty of the Humanities to another degree in the faculty.

Students who transferred from other universities or faculties within the UFS, or between qualifications in the Faculty of the Humanities in 2016 and before, will be excluded from this policy.

2.12 Qualifications in the Faculty of the Humanities

The following undergraduate qualifications may be awarded by the Faculty of the Humanities.

2.13 Transition from old six-digit module codes to new eight-digit module codes

A module code represents the content and academic level of a module. Changes in the code therefore indicate a change in the module. As was indicated in the 2014 Faculty Rule Book, the Faculty of the Humanities has been undergoing an extensive process of recurriculation to update all modules. Some modules have undergone extensive changes; others have only been brought up to date in terms of the latest research in the field. The Faculty will be phasing in the modules with extensive changes over a period of three years: First-year modules in 2015; second-year modules in 2016; and third-year modules in 2017.

All students who register for the first time in 2015 must register using the new 8-digit codes.

The following transition rules ONLY apply to students who have been registered with the University before 2015.

Most modules have been updated but have not undergone any other significant change. These modules are labelled C in the column Transition Rules in the Table below. Students registering for these modules must simply register for the new 8-digit code that is given in the column labelled Module Code New (second from left).

Modules that are labelled A in the Transition Rule column are modules where the NQF level of the module has been adjusted. Students registering for these modules must follow the instructions in A below.

Modules that are labelled B in the Transition Rule column are modules in which significant NQF level, credit and/or content changes have been made. Students registering for these modules must follow the instruction in B below.

A	Students in the Faculty of the Humanities who failed this module before or during 2014, must reregister for the module using the OLD 6-digit module code given in the column labelled Module Code Old (first column on the left)*. Students in the Faculty of the Humanities who registered prior to 2015 and WHO require this module for their degree must register for this module using the OLD 6-digit module code. Students from other faculties must please consult their faculty rulebooks for guidance on how to register. Students must attend the classes scheduled for the NEW module code on the official timetable. All summative assessments for these modules will be split so that students repeating the module or attempting the module for the first time but who were registered prior to 2015 can be assessed at the appropriate NQF level as per their original curriculum. Only one transitional year will be allowed. If a student fails the transitional attempt to pass the 6-digit-code module in the transitional year, the student will be required to change over to the new 8-digit code module. In some cases where credits have increased this may incur extra expense for a student. Students who fail the 6-digit-code module in their transitional year will be required to change their curriculum to the new structures that will be introduced from 2016.
B	Students in the Faculty of the Humanities who failed this module before or during 2014, must reregister for the module using the OLD 6-digit module code given in the column labelled Module Code Old (first column on the left). Students in the Faculty of the Humanities who registered prior to 2015 and who require this module for their degree must register for this module using the OLD 6-digit module code. Students from other faculties must please consult their faculty rule books for guidance on how to register. These modules will be taught according to their original content and level in separate classes from the new 8-digit-code modules. Departments will be responsible for scheduling these classes from the second week of each semester. Students must attend the departmental meeting WHICH WILL BE ADVERTISED ON THE FACULTY OF THE HUMANITIES WEBSITE during the first week of the semester to establish the schedules for these classes. Only one transitional year will be allowed. If a student fails the transitional attempt to pass the 6-digit-code module in the transitional year, the student will be required to change over to the new 8-digit code. In some cases where credits have increased this may incur extra expense for a student. A student who fails the 6-digit-code module in their transitional year will be required to change their curriculum to the new structures that will be introduced from 2016.
C	Most modules have been updated and have been allocated new 8-digit codes. These modules are labelled C in the column Transition Rules in the table below. Students registering for these modules must simply register for the new 8-digit code that is given in the column labelled Module Code New (second from the left).

4.3 Recommended Academic Plans

The Faculty of the Humanities makes provision for core academic plans in the BA degree. These plans are built around a specific core (majors), which together with a relevant minor subject and an elective (s); offer a student a coherent curriculum with a purposeful outcome.

Academic plans are designed so that decisions about which subjects a student will major in can be made at the end of their 1st year within the options of that academic plan. Students wanting to change academic plans at the end of their first year will have to apply for this and be subject to the consequences of such a decision. Such a decision will be made with full academic advice support but students must take cognizance that a subject that is not done in first year cannot be taken as a major without the consequence of extending study for an extra year. Academic Advice in the first year of study will focus on the general interests of the student. Serious academic decisions about future subjects happen at the end of the first year of study.

Recommended academic plans are not the only options available to students. Subject choices that differ from recommended academic plans will have to be applied for and approved by the Office of the Dean and the Programme Director in order to ensure academic coherence and progression. It is strongly suggested that students consider recommended academic plans first before attempting to put their own academic plan together.

(Note: Any deviation from the plan must be approved by the Dean of the faculty, on recommendation of the Programme Director. Deviations will be restricted to avoid timetable clashes.)

The following recommended academic plans are offered in the BA degree. Students should select one.
