1. General Rules

The 2017 General Rules of the University apply to all students and faculties, and hence to the degree, diploma qualifications and programmes of the Faculty of Theology. These rules deal with issues such as the admission requirements of the University, registration as a student, recognition of prior learning and articulation, requirements for passing, examinations, etc.

It is the responsibility of students to acquaint themselves with all the General Rules for Undergraduate and Postgraduate Qualifications relevant to their studies.

2. Faculty Rules

Faculty rules relate specifically to the degree, diploma and certificate programmes offered by the Faculty of Theology. These rules are explained and applied in this Rule Book. The rules according to which students register for the first time will be valid for the duration of their studies for that particular qualification.

It is the responsibility of students to acquaint themselves with the rules of the Faculty of Theology.

3. National Benchmark Test

It is compulsory for prospective UFS students registering for a first-time Bachelor's Degree to write the National Benchmark Test (NBT) prior to the registration period in January each year, i.e. in the previous year. Theology students write the Academic and Quantitative Literacy Test only. Visit the NBT website at www.nbt.ac.za or contact the office directly (051-401 2448).

Students who have not obtained a UFS competence score, or did not write the NBT, have to register for the Foundational Provisional module in either Afrikaans (AGAH1508) or English (EALH1508), additional to minimum credit requirement in order to complete the degree.

Students who are admitted to the Higher Certificate in Theology are strongly advised to write the NBT. If they wish to articulate to a Bachelor's Degree, they are required to write the tests in the year before their first registration for the Bachelor's Degree. Failure to do this means they have to register for the Foundational Provisional language module in either Afrikaans (AGA1508) or English (EALH1508).

4. Assessment Rules[1]

4.1 Admission to the examination
To gain admission to the examination in a module a student must:
  i) obtain a minimum module mark of 40 percent; and
  ii) meet all the prescribed subminimum and assignment requirements, and must have participated in all the scheduled assessments as set out in the relevant module guide.

4.2 Examinations
Two examinations are scheduled per semester:
  i) a main examination and
  ii) an additional examination.

Once admission to the examination has been granted, participation in the main examinations is compulsory.

[1] For a detailed explanation of Assessment Rules for Undergraduate, Honours, Master's and Doctoral qualifications, please refer to the relevant section of the General Rules.

A student who gained admission to the main examination may apply (on the prescribed form[2] and within the period allowed) for admission to the additional examination when:

    i)   he/she is unable to take part in the main examination due to justified extraordinary circumstances; or

    ii)   he/she wishes to improve the final mark provided that at least 60 percent has been obtained in the main examination; or

    iii)   a student in her/his final academic semester who – upon completion of the main examination – must prolong her/his studies to obtain the qualification subsequent to failing a single module.

A student who erred in respect of the examination timetable and/or the scheduled test timetable or as regards submission of assignments does not qualify for justified extraordinary circumstances.

4.3 Pass requirements

To pass a module a final mark of at least 50 percent must be obtained provided that

    i)   a subminimum module mark of at least 40 percent be taken into account; and

4.4 Passing with distinction

In order to pass a module with distinction, a student must obtain a final mark of at least 75%

5.3 Failure to pass a module twice:

A student who has already twice registered for a particular module and who still fails to comply with the pass requirements, will only be granted one further opportunity to reregister for the qualification on the basis of exceptional merit, on the recommendation of the head of department or programme director, with the approval of the dean of the faculty and written notification to the designated registrar.

CURRICULA

The curricula of the various modules presented by the Institute for Reconciliation and Social Justice:

MASTER OF RECONCILIATION AND SOCIAL COHESION

MODULE CODE	MODULE TITLE	CREDITS
RTEF7900	This module focuses on the status of scholarship in the field; diverse in orientations; eclectic and inclusive of interpretive schemes; adventurous in thinking; and productive as praxis.	30
RRSC7900	This module focuses on innovative and specialised research frames, approaches and techniques in the fields of reconciliation and social cohesion.	30
RCRP7900	Students will do a supervised research project on a relevant selected topic within the field of reconciliation and social cohesion.	90
RDDC7900	Categories of difference, such as race, ethnicity and gender were made through historical processes and in relationship to one another. This module focuses on the complexities of pluri-cultural societies and the challenges in the realm of accommodating both difference and equality.	15
RJDW7900	The concept of justice in its various manifestations is investigated. Explicit links to human wellness are to be made, drawing from critical community psychology understandings of psycho-political validity in the dispensing of justice. Democracy is explored as a process in the unfolding of social justice. The notion of democracy as spectacle vs. democracy of proximity is fleshed out. Personal, relational and collective wellness is problematised from a justice and democracy perspective.	15
RPTL7900	The South African reconciliation process is plagued by the politics of meaning and systemic injustices. This module focuses on the possibility and the nature of theological responses to contemporary public issues. On the possibility of dialogue, it engages with the meaning of "public" in public theology and the politics of meaning. On the nature of theological responses, it critically engages with the notion of liberating justice as a theological approach to the politics of meaning and systemic injustices. Life together in South Africa is shaped by influences such as religion, the Apartheid past, modernity and globalisation. These narratives shape the embodied structures and the ethos of life in communion. The module focuses on the challenges and promises of the dynamic nature of life in communion embedded in Christ and embodied in the shaped reality. Reflections on liturgies serve as the loci within time (present, past, future), traditions (rituals, ecumenism), context and culture (global, local) where embodied life in communion becomes possible and a celebration.	15
RMTF7900	If reconciliation is indeed a permanent social demand, how do we weave big and small 'moments of reconciliation' into interpretative schemes that can guide practices towards a legitimate project of social justice?	15
