Diane Victor, 'n goewild en vromer Suid-Afrikaner en internasionale kunsmaker, is bekend vir haar briljante teken- en tekenverrekenne. Victor onttrek kontraste in haar kunstenaarship deur dikwels satiries visuele narratiewe wat loop in 'n post-apokaliptiese-Suid-Afrika en-kommentaar wat bemiddel word deur my persoonlike reaksie tot spesifieke situasies en mense. Haar werk, wat op tekennens en makwerk fokus, distasteer riep aksie en politise absurditeit wat inherent tekenende verstande verstaan. Volgens Victor is 'n beeldende kunstenaar 'n vrou en kinders. Die werke is goewildes figureer en narratief in hul samestelling wat hulle tegnieke maak tot alle betragers.

Diane Victor, an established artist both in South Africa and internationally, is renowned for her superb draughtsmanship and pen-making skills. Victor contrasts in her artwork, often using satirical visual narratives that explore living in post-apocalyptic South Africa. "The commentary in my work is perhaps social observation and commentary mediated through my personal reactions to specific situations and people. My work, which uses drawing and printmaking, is inherently political and social. As an artist, I see myself as a woman and children. The works are a reflection of the political and social conditions inherent in our continuing racial divide, economic disparity, political and corporate greed, corruption, gender inequality and violence against women and children. The works are to all viewers.

Die Sanlam-voortreke-venning, wat in sy derde finale, word nou die beste portrette in twee dimensies in Suid-Afrika. Gemma and Felix, 'n dubbele portret in olieverf deur Kate Arthur, het in 2017 die toekenning ontvang en word vergesied deur 39 werke wat gekies is deur 'n panel van kunstenaars en kritici. Die wenning is deur 'n panel van kunstenaars en kritici. Die wenning is deur 'n panel van kunstenaars en kritici. Die wenning is deur 'n panel van kunstenaars en kritici.

The Sanlam Portrait Award, now in its third iteration, chooses some of the best portraits in two dimensions in South Africa. The winning portrait Gemma and Felix, a double portrait in oil by Kate Arthur, is accompanied by 39 additional works. The award is organized by the Photo and Video Artists of South Africa (PVASA), a national organization sponsored by Sanlam Private Wealth. Previous winners of the Sanlam Portrait Award were Heather Gourlay-Corryglen in 2013 and John Rice in 2015. The exhibition continues its countrywide tour showing in Art Collector and is supported by Sanlam Private Wealth.

Prominente Suid-Afrikaanse kunstenaars vanuit die hoorspanne van ontwerp- en handwerkdisciplines se werk word saam uitgestel. Die uitstalling werk verkyk in hedendaagse konteks waar gemiddelde kunstenaarship op 'n manier in netwerke, in 'n konteks van wêreldwye netwerke, veral netwerke. In 'n konteks van wêreldwye netwerke, veral netwerke. In 'n konteks van wêreldwye netwerke, veral netwerke.

In this show the works of prominent South-African artists who engage with conceptual art, design and craft disciplines are curated into one space. The exhibition explores practices where the boundaries between design, craft and art are blurred. The artists use a variety of materials and reinvent traditional techniques of crafts such as embroidery, bookbinding, weaving, carpentry and paper cutting. It also explores the meaning and importance of craftsmanship in contemporary art practices. Well-known local artists are also included in the exhibition. The aim of this is to explore new possibilities between these disciplines.
